THIS is the Thirty-third Edition of the SCOTTISH DIRECTORY AND GAZETTEER, and we have again to tender sincere thanks to our numerous Subscribers and Friends for the steadily increased patronage which, from year to year, has been accorded to the work.

Several important new Sections are now embodied in the Directory. These include a complete List of the Magistrates, Councillors, and Officials for every Municipal and Police Burgh in Scotland, Shopkeepers' Half-Holidays, Weekly Markets, etc. Amongst the other miscellaneous information are included Municipal, Clerical, and Medical Lists for Edinburgh, Glasgow, Aberdeen, and Dundee; Justices of the Peace for the Cities of Edinburgh and Glasgow; Officers of State, Local Government Board for Scotland, Lords-Lieutenant, Sheriffs, Procurators-Fiscal, and Judges of the Supreme Courts of Scotland; Members of Parliament; British Consuls and Vice-Consuls in Foreign Countries; Masonic Officials in Scotland; Railway Officials, etc.

Since the last edition was issued, the Directory has undergone a complete and thorough revision, and it is confidently hoped that mistakes are both few and unimportant. For any errors of omission, or inaccuracy, however, we must plead indulgence in view of the wide area covered by the work.

The Gazetteer gives the Population according to the latest Census.

In the process of compilation and bringing up to date of the present edition of the Directory a large number of names have been added to its lists, our agents having visited every City, Town, and Village in Scotland to verify, by personal application, every name it contains.

By the adoption of the most approved methods, and the latest machinery, we are enabled to issue our Directory at less than half the price usually charged for similar publications. The price to Subscribers (i.e., ordered before publication) remains 12s. 6d. as hitherto; Colonial and Foreign Subscribers are charged 5s. extra to cover additional cost of carriage, etc.

THE COUNTY DIRECTORY.

A County Supplement is now issued, and can be had bound together with the "SCOTTISH DIRECTORY AND GAZETTEER." This Supplement forms an exhaustive Directory of the Nobility, Gentry, and Private Residents, also County Councillors, Professional Gentlemen, and Farmers throughout Scotland, and is issued at the price of 7s. 6d. extra; or may be had bound separately, price 8s. 6d.

In offering our best thanks to all those who have kindly assisted us, directly or through our representatives, with information, we wish to state that any suggestion likely to increase the usefulness of the work will have our respectful consideration. It will be our earnest and constant endeavour in future editions, by accuracy of detail, completeness of information, and the introduction of new features, to merit the continued confidence of the public.

THIS comprehensive Publication is the largest Directory in the English Language, and contains the Names and Addresses of more Manufacturers, Merchants, Traders, Shippers, Brokers, Agents, Dealers, and others connected with English Trade and Commerce than any other Directory issued from the Press. It includes copious and authentic lists of the Professions, Trades, and Businesses of upwards of Six Thousand Cities, Towns, Villages, and Localities, in England and Wales, the Isle of Man, and the Channel Islands. Every Name considered of sufficient importance for a wholesale house to solicit custom from, being entered. The mass of information it embraces is not otherwise obtainable without an expenditure of over £40 on Local and County Directories; and as many of these are issued at intervals of several years, their information cannot be so recent and reliable as that given in a work like the ENGLISH DIRECTORY AND GAZETTEER, which is kept standing in type (reducing errors to a minimum), and revised and printed annually, and issued to Subscribers at £1, 10s.—a price much less than is usually charged for the Directory of a single English County.

The First Volume of the Work consists of a Trades' Directory of LONDON, and about Three Hundred and Twenty Suburban Districts, giving authentic lists of the Professions, Trades, and Businesses of the Metropolis. It also contains a separate and exhaustive Trades Directory for each of the principal Provincial Cities and Towns, arranged as under. (There is also the ISLE OF MAN and the CHANNEL ISLANDS, as well as a BANK DIRECTORY of England and Wales.)

BIRMINGHAM	CARDIFF	LEEDS	NEWCASTLE	PORTSMOUTH	South Shields

The Second Volume gives Local Trades' Directories for all Towns (excepting the above) and Villages of importance in England, grouped alphabetically under their various Counties, with the Forty Counties arranged in alphabetical order to facilitate reference; also all Towns and Villages of importance in WALES, grouped alphabetically under their various Counties, with the Twelve Counties arranged in alphabetical order. There is also a concise Gazetteer of England and Wales, giving the location, population, and other local statistics and historical references for the Cities, Towns, Parishes, and Villages, with Postal, Telegraphic, Railway, and Shipping information.

In the course of revising the Work, every Town and Village of importance in England and Wales, the Isle of Man, and the Channel Islands are visited annually by experienced Agents, solely employed by the Proprietors for the purpose of verifying, by personal application, every name appearing in the Directory. Thus every effort that can possibly be made by a large and efficient staff of compilers is put forth ungrudgingly, and regardless of trouble and expense, to bring the information up to date, and to ensure the correctness of the work.

Any alteration in the Style of Firms, or change of Address, should be communicated to the Publishers.

The usefulness of the work is enhanced by copious lists of Merchants and Traders in LIVERPOOL and GLASGOW—the British Cities which have the most extensive trade with Ireland. ## PRESS OPINIONS.

Freeman

Seldom has a work deserved its title better than that which we have now before us; it is, indeed, in the fullest sense, a complete and perfect "Business Directory of Ireland," comprising within its pages compendious alphabetical and classified lists of all the principal manufacturers, merchants, shippers, and traders in all the chief cities, towns, and trade centres. The work reflects much credit on the care, industry, and patience employed by its compilers.

Irish Tobacco Trade Journal.

Without exception the above is the most useful Directory of Ireland published. It contains exhaustive classified lists of the manufacturers, traders, merchants, agents, and dealers in upwards of five hundred Irish cities, towns, and villages, besides a comprehensive Gazetteer section. To merchants in the principal cities of Ireland this Directory should prove invaluable. They are often at a loss for a complete list of the traders in the different towns and villages for the purpose of circularising, etc., but the book under review supplies all these, arranged under the different trade headings. The Directory should be on the table of every up-to-date man who seeks to do any kind of business with traders in the different Irish districts as well as with Liverpool and Glasgow,—January 1906.

Carrickfergus Advertiser.

The present is the nineteenth edition of this well-known Directory, and great care has been exercised in revising the various sections and in bringing all information up to date. The Gazetteer section has been fully revised, and now gives the populations according to the 1901 census. A new Railway Map of Ireland is given, also town plans of Dublin, Belfast, and Cork. The volume is worthy of the great firm by which it is published.—26th January 1906

Irish Times

In the "Irish Directory" merchants and traders will find all the special information for which they have hitherto looked in vain. The book contains the most exhaustive alphabetical and classified lists of the principal merchants, traders, &c., in Irish business towns.

Northern Whig

The book is calculated to be very valuable for reference to merchants and manufacturers. Sections devoted to Liverpool and Glasgow will be particularly useful, as the trade relations of Ireland with these ports are so intimate.

Londonderry Sentinel.

Messrs Macdonald have long published a Scottish Directory and Gazetteer, and the present is the nineteenth annual edition of their Irish work of a similar kind. The volume has evidently been compiled with care. The Gazetteer is likely to be even more useful than the directory portion, seeing that it gives the population and other statistics of almost every village in the country. The Railway Map of Ireland is well executed.—20th January 1906.

Limerick Chronicle.

It is sometimes complained that there is not published a comprehensive directory of Limerick. That complaint may now be hushed, for we have before us a copy of "Macdonald's Irish Directory and Gazetteer," which entirely fills the bill as far as Limerick City is concerned; and if the other cities (with which we are not familiar) are as well done as Limerick, Clare, Sligo, and Tipperary (with which we are), the book should be the business man's "vade mecum." . . . In a word, it is a Directory that is a Directory, and hotels and places of public resort ought to have it, while all business men will find it very useful not only as an Irish Directory, but a Directory of

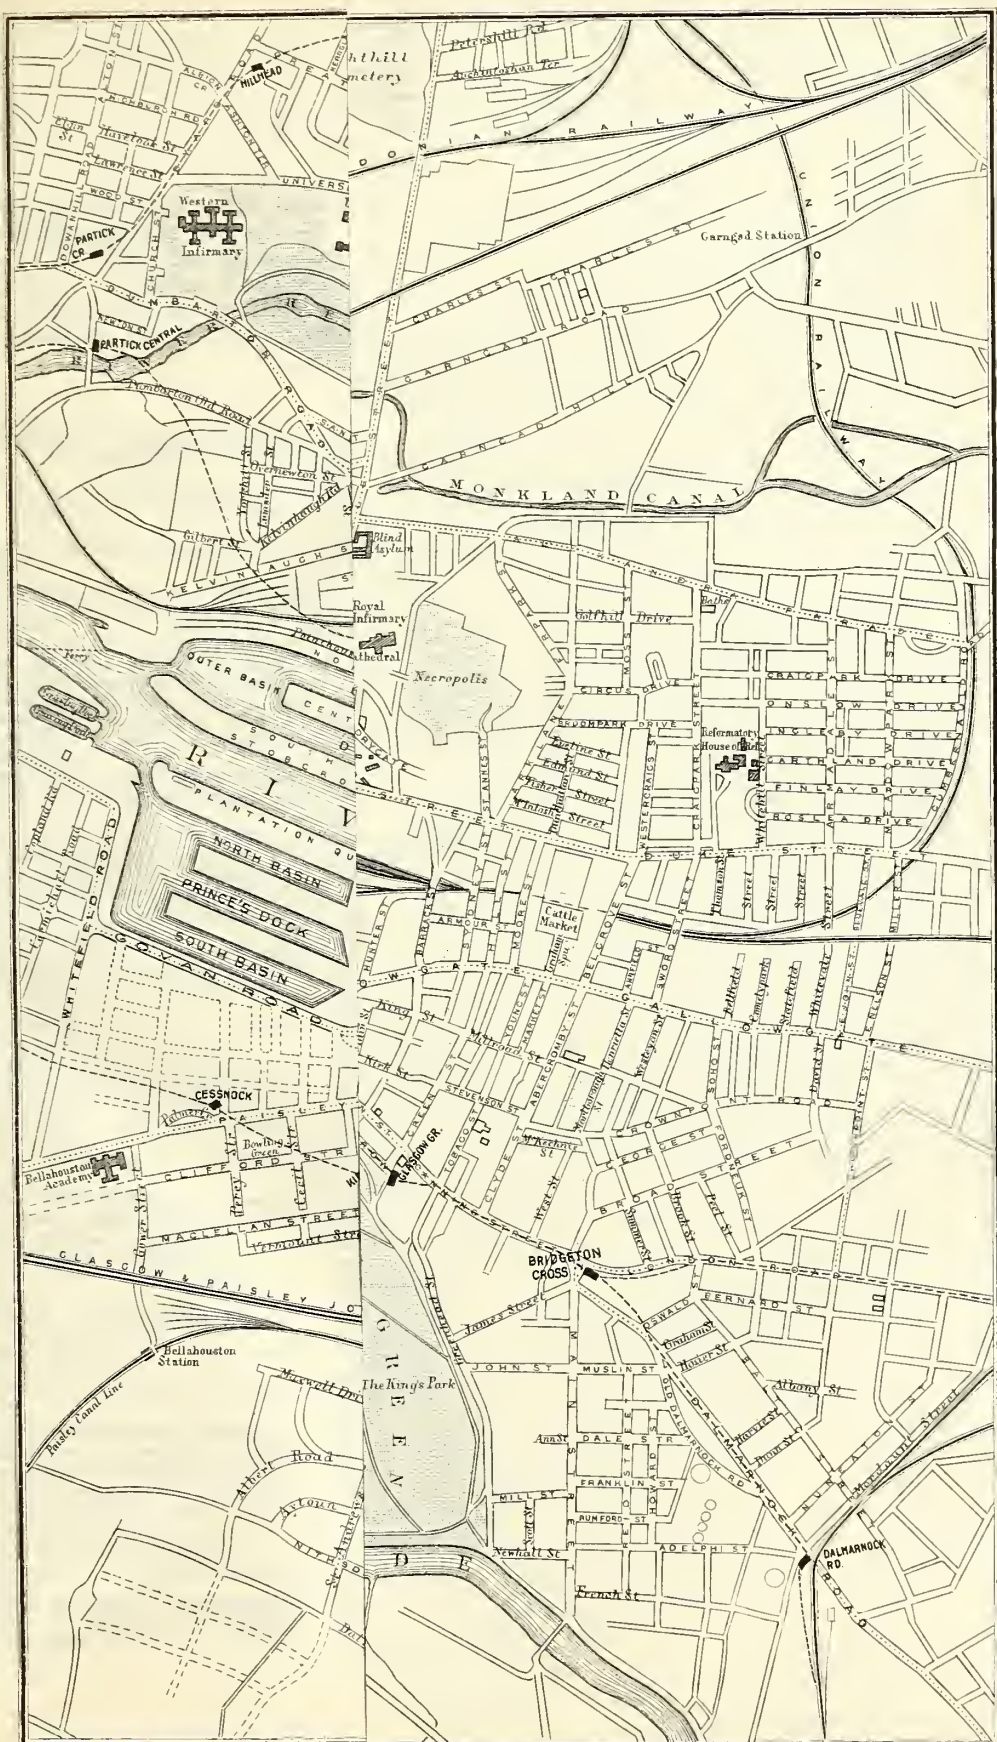

Liverpool and Glasgow, a home, colonial, and foreign mercantile guide, and a comprehensive gazetteer. — 23rd December 1905

The Newry Reporter.

We have a word of special praise for "Macdonald's Irish Directory and Gazetteer," the nineteenth annual edition of which has just been published. Always a most reliable and carefully arranged compendium of its class, this edition for 1906 has now superadded a number of new sections of an important description. In the Gazetteer section the populations, according to the 1901 census, are given. The officially revised Bank Section gives the names of all the banks and bankers in Ireland, with a list of their branches, sub-offices, and agents. Taken altogether, Messrs Macdonald's Irish Directory and Gazetteer is a work of genuine usefulness, and we can heartily recommend it to all who require an aid of the kind.—23rd December 1905

The Armagh Guardian.

There are many directories on the market at present, but most of them are only so in name. That is, one can only find therein the names of those people who pay for the privilege of having those names in print, and in consequence not only many traders in each town are omitted, but entire towns do not appear at all. This is notably the case with big London "directories." "Macdonald's Irish Directory" is not one of these skeleton books. It gives the names of all business men in large towns classified according to the business, and those in small towns in alphabetical order, and is therefore a real directory. We have gone to the trouble of checking several towns, and have found it very correct indeed. A Gazetteer is also given, which, with the accompanying maps, will be found very useful.—29th December 1905.
